

30 August 2017

Dear Diocesan Advisor,

The National Religious Education Congress has now become an annual event. Its aim is to provide an opportunity for religious educators to come together to find inspiration for their work and to avail of the opportunity for personal renewal and growth.

The Congress, organised by a voluntary committee, is a not-for-profit event. This year the members of the committee are Vivek da Silva (Chairperson), Patricia O'Sullivan, Maura Hyland, Brendan O'Regan, Fr Turlough Baxter, Ciaran Coll, Anna Maloney, Pamela McLoughlin and Sr Patricia Lynott.

This year's Congress will take place on Saturday, 7 October 2017 at St Patrick's College, Maynooth, Co. Kildare.

The theme for the Congress is Voices that Challenge. We live in a society that is increasingly pluralistic and diverse. It is diverse in its social values, religious beliefs, political affiliations and cultural ethnicity. It is in this context that there is, in Ireland today, a robust debate about the nature of Religious Education, and in particular about its place in schools.

We hear different voices expressing a variety of opinions and concerns but, amidst this cacophony of voices, we might not always hear the insistent, still, small voices within and among us.

Which voices should we listen to? How do we find our own voice? How do we encourage others to nurture their own voice?

We invite you to join us at this year's National Religious Education Congress as we explore how we can create space in our lives, our schools and our communities so that different voices can be expressed, listened to and heard.

This year's keynote speaker is Dr Leonardo Franchi from the University of Glasgow. He will address the topic Religious Education and Intercultural Dialogue in the Contemporary Church.

There will be a number of workshops that will focus on the concerns of both primary and post-primary teachers. The workshop presenters are Dr Leonardo Franchi, Ms Kate Liffey, Ms Maura Hyland, Mr Steve Warner, Sr Bernadette Purcell, Dr Patricia Kieran, Ms Brenda Drumm and Br Richard Hendrick.

The enclosed brochure gives further information on the National Religious Education Congress 2017. You can also go to our website (www.recongress.ie) for more information.

Yours sincerely,

Vivek da Silva

VOICES THAT CHALLENGE

We live in a society that is increasingly secular, liberal and democratic. It is diverse in its social values, religious beliefs, political affiliations and cultural ethnicity. It is in this context that there is, in Ireland today, a robust debate about the nature of Religious Education, and in particular about its place in schools.

We hear different voices expressing a variety of opinions within and among us.

Which voices should we listen to? How do we find our own voice? How do we encourage others to nurture their own voice? At this year's National Religious Education Congress we explore how we can create space in our lives, our schools and our communities so that different voices can be expressed, listened to and heard.

World Meeting of Families 2018 – Launch of School Programme

The World Meeting of Families in August 2018 will be a hugely significant event for the Church and society in Ireland. What is the significance of this event for schools? What roles can our Catholic schools play in preparing for this event? What will this event have to say about the vital relationship between families and school?
These questions will be explored at the Religious Education Congress 2017.
